

ASKS U. S. TO WITHDRAW ALL TROOPS

RAISES A NEW ISSUE

Washington Officials Are Reluctant to Predict What Government's Course Will Be—News Received Calmly on Border.

San Antonio, April 13.—Until General Funston receives orders from Washington, no change will be made in the conduct of the campaign against Villa.

Anxiety that has been manifest at headquarters here for two days because of the movements of the de facto government's troops in northern Mexico, was more evident today. Information at hand indicated that in the event of open conflict between the government forces and those of General Pershing, troops from Sonora were in such position to be a menace to the American line of communication.

Former Sunday School Teachers of Lorimer's Testifies of His Early Life.

Chicago, April 13.—The defense in the trial today of Wm. Lorimer, charged with conspiracy in connection with the failure of La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, told of the early life and struggles of deposed United States senator.

The first witness called was Mrs. Howard O. Sprague, wife of a city official, who testified that she first knew Wm. Lorimer forty years ago when he was a poor ragged bootblack of twelve years. He entered her Sunday school class in the First Presbyterian church.

The majority of the class were street archers, the witness said, "but William was superior to them. His family was very poor. His mother was bedridden, and William, though only a small boy, was the family's only support."

She then told how she had "tutored" William in reading, writing and arithmetic, the first schooling he had ever had. Mrs. Sprague said she followed his career since that time and considered him a loving husband and devoted father.

SEEK THOSE WHO BACKED BOMB PLOTS

"WELL KNOWN GERMAN" WHO FURNISHED FUNDS AND CHEMIST SOUGHT BY DETECTIVES.

FOUR MEN BEING HELD

Employees of Steamship Companies Are Charged With Placing Explosives on Ships Carrying Supplies.

New York, April 13.—Detectives who yesterday arrested four Germans charged with placing bombs on ships carrying war munitions to the entente allies, today sought evidence involving a "well known German," who is alleged to have supplied $10,000 to finance the fire bomb conspiracy.

They sought also the arrest of the chemist who did the chemical work in the manufacture of the bombs. The name of neither of these men has yet been revealed by the police.

Four employees of the Hamburg-American line and the North German Lloyd Steamship companies here, are under arrest, charged with attempting to place bombs on ships carrying war munitions.

Ernest Becker, Captain Charles Von Kleier, Captain Otto Wolpert and Captain Enno Bode.

Preparation was made to arraign them in a Brooklyn court today to answer to the specific charge of placing bombs in sugar bags on board the steamer Kirk Oswald on May 2, 1915.

The steamer caught fire on a bomb explosion while on her way to Marseilles, France. Unexploded bombs were found in her cargo after her arrival.

Police Captain Thomas Tunney, who has charge of the case, regards the arrest of the four prisoners as the most important stride yet made in detection of a great conspiracy to destroy steamships sailing with war munitions from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Seattle.

The men who were declared to have been in the conspiracy for the last four months, have been involved in at least $1,000,000 of damage. They assert they have evidence bombs were placed on the steamer Kirk Oswald.

The Hoboken factory was a small structure in which a few men were employed. One of the prisoners told the police it was used at first to make fertilizer for shipment to Germany.

Both Von Kleier and Bode have confessed to making the bombs. The parts played by Captain Wolpert and Bode have not yet been revealed.

The police today gave credit to a German agent, detected by Henry Dard, for unearthing the plot. They said he had ingratiated himself with the principals as a fellow conspirator, gaining their acquaintance and confidence.

Discovering at the plot was brought about, according to the authorities, here of Hoboken, through the discontent of a man who had quarreled with the leaders over money payments. The man, whose identity is withheld, told them that Captain Boy-Ed, the German naval attaché in Washington, and the military attaché, had before their departure from the United States, laid a large sum of money at the disposal of the bomb makers.

Seattle, April 13.—In connection with the arrest of four Germans in New York in an alleged fire bomb conspiracy to destroy steamships carrying war munitions to the entente allies, it was recalled here today that the American steamship Rio Pasig, which sailed from here Dec 31 with cargo of coal, steel rails and copper for the Russian government, was given up for lost a week ago.

The vessel was under charter to the Westwaterhouse & Company of Seattle and the company by the Manila & Company of Manila. She carried a Philippine crew of thirty men.

No word was ever received from the Rio Pasig after she started from the coast.

Slingsby and his wife, Dorothy, is the rightful successor to the Slingsby estate in England, valued at about $500,000. Last month the British court of appeals, overruling the lower court, held the child was not the legitimate heir.

GUN THAT'S HELPING TO HOLD VERDUN

As the war progresses the tendency is for light field artillery to give place to heavy artillery, the belligerents relying more and more on guns of large calibre. Thus the Germans use their 30's where formerly they used 77's, and the French, while proud as ever of their 75's, are constantly adding to their 105's, 155's, and 220's. The gun shown here is a "155 court" (six inch), and although this particular pattern is an old one (1881), it has out in excellent work since its installation.

Paris, April 13.—Calm prevailed in the whole region of Verdun last night, this morning's official communication says. Preparation was made by the Germans for an attack on Hill 304, but the attack was prevented by the French from being carried into effect. No other important developments were reported at the front.

Recover Bank Loot at Farmer's House

Detectives Search Suspect's House and Find Part of Stolen Property.

Pittsburgh, April 13.—Detectives searching the house of Thos. Talbot, the Russellton farmer, arrested last night in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank of Houston, Tex., last week, announced today they had recovered a large part of the loot.

Investigation of a chicken coop recalled the presence of a considerable quantity of mutilated currency which detectives say was part of the $16,000 stolen from the banks. They also declare that several $100 bills and many $10 bills have been recovered. Search for the man who was declared to have been with Talbot when the robbery was committed, is being continued.

Later the detectives said Mrs. Talbot, the wife of the accused man, had broken down under examination and told them the night of the robbery her husband brought home a large sum of money but she did not know where he got it. They also said they made further discoveries in Talbot's house including a number of ten dollar bills of the robbed bank, which never had been placed in circulation.

Both Von Kleier and Bode have confessed to making the bombs. The parts played by Captain Wolpert and Bode have not yet been revealed.

SUSSEX NOTE DECRYPTED FOR WILSON

LATEST GERMAN COMMUNICATION ON SUSSEX WAR IS DECODED AT WASHINGTON TODAY.

EVIDENCE FROM PARIS

French Reported to Have Additional Information to the Effect Channel Steamer Was Torpedoed.

Washington, April 13.—The German note on the Sussex and other submarine cases has been received at the state department and was being decoded today. It probably will be laid before President Wilson and Secretary Lansing before night.

In view of the pressing nature of the situation in Germany and Mexico, President Wilson today abandoned his plans to go to New York tomorrow night and canceled his engagement to speak before the Young Men's Democratic club there Saturday.

While Germany denies the Sussex was attacked by one of her submarines, and explained a sketch made by the submarine commander of a ship he torpedoed did not tally with the description of the Sussex, officials say Germany's admission that a submarine was in the vicinity, coupled with the array of evidence at hand, points to the conclusion that the Sussex was torpedoed.

Much Food Is Used to Feed Students

To Feed Thousand Students at University Large Quantity of Food Is Required Every Day.

Madison, Wis., April 13.—How much food 1,000 college students eat in the course of a year is roughly indicated by figures from the University of Wisconsin kitchen, which supplies the dining rooms at Barnard and Chabot, and the army and navy canteen. It feeds in all 1,000 people every day. Cream pie is the most popular dessert, and corn the chosen vegetable.

Eighty bushels of grain butter are baked every day. Besides these, 130 loaves of a special kind are bought to use in making toast. It takes fifteen bushels of grain butter to make one pound of butter. They sand whenever that grain is served. Eight bushels of potatoes are used every day, or two carloads a year.

The milk, of which 380 quarts are used daily, is obtained from an outlying farm which is scientifically managed and keeps only registered Guernsey cattle. The latest test for bacteria in the milk showed the count to be very low. Fifteen gallons of cream are purchased daily from a local dairy.

Whenever bananas are served, four full bunches are needed. This includes those which go into banana cream pie and the banana salad. Six dozen heads of lettuce go in the salad for one meal. Three cases of oranges are used every three days. Other perishable goods are bought in small quantities from local dealers.

Cream of tomato soup comes first in favor at the tables in the halls, though pea soup is the greater favorite in the cafeteria. A study is made of the favorite dishes and the public taste is thus catered to.

TONIGHT'S ADDRESS TO DEAL WITH HELL

BRIGHAM'S SUBJECT WILL BE "THE QUESTION OF A RICH MAN IN A TIGHT PLACE."

ATTENDANCE ON GAIN

Union Lenten Meetings Are Proving An Inspiration to Hundreds Each Evening—Big Chorus Leads in Singing.

Nearly six hundred people crowded into the Congregational church last evening to hear Rev. Brigham read the fourth sermon of the Lenten meetings. The attendance was fully one hundred more than the previous night. Those who were there heard a mighty good talk as well as some excellent music.

Rev. Hazen who has been ill was present for the first time and took charge of the meeting. Following the sermon an after-service was held in the Sunday School room which taxed its capacity to the limit. It was an evening many will not forget for some time.

A party of people from Avalon attended the meeting last night in a body. Other towns in the county will undoubtedly make up parties and come during the balance of this week. Reservations will be held upon request.

The Boy Scouts of the United Brethren church, numbering thirty-six in all, marched down the aisles last night to their seats amid the applause of the audience.

Church members and non-church members alike who have heard the powerful, interest-compelling sermons of Rev. Brigham at these meetings are coming again and again, bringing more friends with them each evening. A wonderful chorus furnishes special numbers and assists in the general singing.

The speaker stated that the subject tonight will be, "The Question of a Rich Man in a Tight Place" and has to do with the mysterious place called "Hell." His revelations on this subject are apt to make a deep impression.

Rev. Parisee chairman of the music, announces the musical program for tonight to include a special number by the chorus, "Harvest Time Here." Stanley Horwood and Alfred Olson will sing in a duet, "Come Holy Spirit." Frank Doane will sing, "Somebody Knows," assisted by the chorus.

A summary of Brigham's address follows: "Art thou he that should come or look for another?" Luke 13. "He that speak unto thee as He." Jn. 4:26.

"There are just two conceptions of Jesus. According to one he was a man. Greater, more noble, more perfect than any other but still a man."

"According to the other Jesus was the Messiah, the longed for of the nations, the Son of the Eternal, the only son of God, 'in the beginning with God.'"

"Ralph Waldo Emerson held the first opinion. 'I am the owner of the sphere, 'Of the seven stars and the solar year, 'Of Caesar's hand and Plato's brain, 'Of Lord Christ's heart and Shakespeare's strain."

"The church from the beginning till now has held the latter. 'The former is the easier conception to grasp. It is less tax upon the intellect. Christ is a man. I can comprehend him. It is not so with the latter. It is not so easy. But it will take less time. Many have taken the lower and rejected the higher because it was easier and took less time. Had I this alone I would keep it."

"If Christ is a man, 'And only a man, I say, 'That of all mankind I will cleave to him, 'And to him I will cleave always.' 'But I want to present some reasons for the higher conception of Christ."

"I want to call your attention to this New Testament. A composite portrait of this Christ. It tells of a life which began with one miracle and ended with another. And a life which was filled with miracles. His words were more wonderful than his deeds. He challenged men to leave all and follow him and they did. He was master of men and nature. Nothing but absolute obedience satisfied him."

"He never betrayed the slightest trace of a consciousness of wrong doing nor has anyone ever charged him with any since Jesus said he was innocent. Pilate said he found no wrong in him and Peter said 'Depart from me for I am a sinful man, O Lord.'"

"Then comes his death and resurrection and the proclaiming of a new message. That of an ascended and risen Lord. And his followers went forth to proclaim it no matter what the cost. Persecutions could not daunt them or dangers frighten them until in a generation the name of Jesus was known to the ends of the civilized world."

"From the beginning there have been those holding the lower view. But everywhere they have lacked the vitality and power. Early in the nineteenth century many Congregational churches in New England adopted this lower view and many thought that this broader view of Jesus would soon supersede the other. But today the body of Congregational churches remaining true to the higher conception number is nearly one million while those accepting the lower are a paltry 70,000.

"What is the reason for the deadening influence of this lower view? Is truth impotent and error powerful? It may be for a time but not for nineteen centuries."

All this only confirms the decision of Peter when he said 'Lord and My God' and any sincere worshiper may prove for himself whether or not Jesus is the divine Savior of men if he will become his honest and obedient disciple."

INTERESTING PLAT OF INDIAN CAMP

Map of Old Indian Village Near Koshkonong Explains Relics

The site of an old Indian village on a farm on the shore of Lake Koshkonong, near Edgerton, Wis., is the relic which Halvorson, Skovien, and the Wisconsin Historical society, the collection includes all sorts of relics—arrows, pounding stones, animal bones, pieces of brass, and a map showing the plan of the original Indian village as it is revealed in a study of the remains is being constructed by the historical society.

With the map pictures of their wares and implements will be exhibited. The object will be to give a realistic idea of an Indian village rather than to show merely artistic or ornamental objects. The location of tepees, dumping grounds, and meeting places will be indicated.

The Carcajou farm, known as the Carcajou farm, is considered the best source of Indian relics in the state. Each year the spring rains expose new materials, and for a number of years Mr. Skovien has furnished the museum at Milwaukee with a assortment of relics revealing the conditions prevailing among the Indians.

About three hundred people probably lived on the site of the farm at the time of the coming of the whites, and it is believed that at one time there were at least double that number. Mr. Skovien, who is a noted naturalist and an authority on bird life especially, has been most interested in making use of the relic left by them for scientific research. He has learned the Indian method of pottery, and has proved that there are much simpler operations than had been supposed, thus discrediting the belief that the Indians had special skilled workers who followed this trade.

COUNCIL WILL MEET WITH SCHOOL BOARD

City Commission and School Board to Confer on Improvement Plans, Probably Next Tuesday.

A conference between the city council and the school board will probably be held on the evening of the 18th inst. The various administrative bodies in this city will meet to reorganize. The meeting of the school board and the council will be held for the purpose of conferring and discussing the proposed alterations or alterations of the High and Lincoln schools and possibly one or two of the other grade schools.

The matter of adding to the high school to care for increased attendance and to eliminate unsafe conditions, as was named in the report of Fire Chief H. C. Klein, has been under consideration for over a year. The most feasible plan for the improvement will be brought up at this meeting. There are several ways in which the desired improvement could be effected. The changes at the Lincoln school are urgently needed. Conditions were declared to be very dangerous in the report made to the board by the fire chief and it is supposed radical changes will be made during the summer, when school closes.

How the Natives Treat Gorillas. Natives in the countries inhabited by great apes regard them always as human beings of inferior types, and it is for this reason that for a long time it was found impossible to get hold of an entire gorilla skin, because the savages considered it religiously necessary to cut off the hands and feet of the animals when they killed them, just as they do with their enemies, possibly for the purpose of rendering them harmless in case they should by any chance come to life again.

Something To Write About

dream of them sometimes? My Grammie used to tell me stories after all the supper dishes were washed and put away and it was getting all nice and dark and cozy. Will you tell the very nicest story your Grammie ever told to you? It would be so nice to hear all the different ones!

Dust In His Eyes.

"To throw dust in the eyes" originated in the early days of Greece, for Spaminondas, wishing to surprise the Lacedaemonians, had 1,000 cavalry advanced in front, causing a great dust, which the wind blew in the face of the enemy, blinding them to the discovery of a flank movement he was executing in order to take the coveted heights in their rear.

SCOTS GIVE WELCOME TO SCOTCH COMEDIAN

Rock County Caledonians Give Reception for Harry Lauder and His Wife at Local Club Rooms.

One hundred or more members of the Rock County Caledonian society and their friends greeted Harry Lauder, redoubtable Scotch comedian, and his wife at one o'clock this afternoon. Lauder's musicians arrayed in kilts favored the delighted audience with several selections, played with all the vigor and gusto of which the bagpipe and big drum are capable, and the comedian himself made a short speech.

"It would please me to be with you the whole afternoon," he said in his broad Scotch accent, "but there is work for me at the theatre, and in order to work, one must eat, so I must be going." There were many sons of Scotland and others who pressed forward to shake the comedian's hand. For each he had a smile and witty remark.

NEW WEATHER SYSTEM IS FALLACIOUS ONE

Chief of United States Weather Bureau Warns Public Against Long-Range Weather Forecasts.

The chief of the United States weather bureau has stated that in the opinion of the bureau a new system of long-range weather forecasting, which has been widely discussed recently, was quite fallacious. The new system is said to be based on the spottedness of the sun and rifts and shafts of solar radiation. In the opinion of the weather bureau it belongs in the same class with other methods of long-range weather forecasting based on lunar, planetary, magnetic, and astrological considerations. None of these systems, it is said, has any scientific value.

During the past few years the weather bureau has received full specifications concerning all the essential details of this particular system. The alleged discovery is, therefore, fully known to the weather bureau and has been carefully studied and examined by its scientific staff. Moreover, other scientists of international reputation now connected with the strongest institutions of the world engaged in astronomical research, and conducting investigations into solar and terrestrial phenomena, have also passed upon these new theories. These authorities are in accord that the deductions and conclusions drawn from the solar conditions on which the new system is based are unwarranted.

When the disk of the sun is minutely examined with powerful telescopes or when it is photographed with the aid of the modern spectroheliograph, the surface presents a characteristic spotted appearance which undergoes slight changes from day to day and wider changes with longer intervals of time, depending upon the well-known rotation of the sun upon its axis and the periodic recurrence of the sunspot maxima and minima.

These and certain well-known related phenomena are now put forward as the basis of a new science which will make possible forecasts of the weather far in advance. That these features of solar activity, however, actually should control and determine the daily changes and sequence of weather conditions in any definite or direct and consequential manner, is regarded by the government scientists as quite impossible. Solar phenomena of the kind described do not have any direct influence upon the weather at any particular time and place, and cannot be the basis of any forecasts whatsoever.

The alleged discovery is regarded as only one of a number of similar schemes which are continually being put forward in some cases the advocates of these schemes assert that they can forecast the weather for weeks or months in advance, and in others they state that they have found means of producing rain artificially, of preventing hail, and in other ways of interfering with and controlling atmospheric phenomena. These pretensions meet with a certain credence because there are a number of people who still cling to the ancient belief in the influence of the moon on the growth and development of crops, and to the idea that the weather conditions can be controlled by laying of crenoline, a transparent cloth, on both sides of the piece of paper.

Other letters needed mending along the edges with parchment paper. To cover holes a piece of paper is laid over the edges and is left larger than the hole until it dries. It is then cut down to the proper size and the edges sandpapered until smooth. After all such repairs are made the letters are mounted on large white sheets and prepared for binding.

An Old Alarm Clock.

At Schramberg, in the Black forest, there is a respectable alarm clock that warned sleepers it was time to get up when Charles I. was king of England. This was made in 1680, and it is deemed a remarkable piece of workmanship. In form it resembles a lantern wherein is a lighted candle, the wick of which is automatically clipped every minute by a pair of scissors. The candle is slowly pushed upward by a spring, which also controls the mechanism of the clock, and at the required hour of waking an alarm is sounded, and at the same time the movable sides of the lantern fall, and the room is flooded with light.

RESTORING MANUSCRIPTS KEEP SPECIALISTS BUSY

Madison, Wis., April 13.—There are not fifty persons in the United States who are skilled in the preservation and repairing of old manuscripts. One of them may be found working on the third floor of the Wisconsin Historical Library building at Madison, one of the six or seven institutions in the country that carry on such work scientifically.

About a generation or two ago a priest in the Vatican library at Rome originated and developed the process now in use in the taking care of old papers. Up until last year there was none of this work, which was high-grade and scientific, done in this country west of the Allegheny Mountains. At work that the university had done was seen at Massachusetts. Last July the process was introduced at the State Historical Library.

The work now being done is on the letters of Moses M. Strong, a prominent man in Wisconsin from 1836 until about 1870. He was a lawyer, a politician, a member of both the territorial and state legislatures, a member of another academic and beneficial societies, and a promoter of the establishment of railroads in the state, and the author of "A History of Wisconsin." His letters deal with all kinds of subjects of business, and date as far back as 1838.

The first thing done in the process of preserving the letters is to place them between wet newspapers under a weight and leave them for five or six hours. This removes the creases and the dirt. Then they are put between wood-pulp boards and left twenty-four hours and then between blotting paper to complete the drying process. The next step is to repair the paper. The paper of some of these letters was so old when received that it would fall to pieces if struck. This is strengthened by laying of c

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

60 DAISY DEAN

Miss Anita King, the plucky player, who drove her own car alone last summer, has just been appointed by Judge White and Chief of Police Snively of Los Angeles a member of the executive committee of the woman's court, to head a special bureau to look after the hosts of screen struck girls in the picture metropolis.

Miss King, as a real actress who knows the ups and downs from experience, will operate her bureau by getting in touch with the girls lured by the camera, warning them of the struggle before them, and, if possible, persuading them to return to their homes.

This is a motion picture protection growing out of the recent excitement in that city in which some folks accused the screen people of immorality in which the "extras" were the special victims.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

TO KEEP HIS PARTNER

Edna Pruvance, who played leads opposite Charlie Chaplin in all productions except the first one, "His New Job," has been selected as the famous comedian's partner for his new comedies.

When Miss Pruvance went to San Francisco about a year ago she had no idea of entering motion pictures. She commenced a course of training to fit her for the prosaic calling of a stenographer.

One day they advertised for a girl to act as Charlie's leading lady. There were about 5,000 applicants for the position. Edna Pruvance, a girl without a theatrical training or experience, procured the position and made good.

MABLE NORMAND

IN POLITE PARTS

Mable Normand, who has been featured with the pie throwers in comedies, is to head a company of her own under the same management. She is to be starred in comedies of a more polite sort. These are to be along the line of Billie Burke's "Peggy".

This change is prompted by the growing popularity of Miss Normand.

Gertrude Robinson has become devoted to the work of the Salvation Army of Jacksonville. Recently she sent two big bundles of clothes to the

BLANCHE SWEET IN A LABOR THRILLER

Popular Star Seen in Lasky Production of "The Blacklist."

Blanche Sweet made "The Blacklist" go interesting yesterday at the Apollo that the end came before one expected it.

Inspired by the recent Colorado mining troubles, William C. de Mille and Marion Fairfax wrote the story which dwells mainly upon the "blacklist" system that shuts off new employment to discharged miners. The tale is strong in its vivid and closely knit situations, its conspicuous forceful action, and its strongly defined characters, although it is weak in making so many events turn upon the individuality of a pretty girl. There are things of exceptional fineness, among them the characterizations both of Vera and Harcourt, the president, by Blanche Sweet and Charles Clary.

SOME WAYS OF REDUCING THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

III. THE ART OF LEFT-OVERS.

(Written for the Gazette by Nellie Maxwell, Department of Family Institutions, of the University of Wisconsin.)

Left-overs are like the poor, "always with us." The prudent housewife, and one who is wisely trained to appreciate the value of materials would not more throw away bits of food than she would throw away money.

Bits of bread and crackers should be dried in the oven, rolled and saved for breadings, chops, cutlets, and for various escapological dishes as well as for covering of a pretty girl. There are things of exceptional fineness, among them the characterizations both of Vera and Harcourt, the president, by Blanche Sweet and Charles Clary.

Small amounts of fish may be combined with potatoes, tomatoes, or other vegetables and a white sauce, covered with buttered crumbs and baked, making a most satisfying dish. Onions and tomatoes stuffed with buttered crumbs, bits of finely chopped meats, such as sausage, ham, or bacon, and baked are most delicious. Many a savory pie may be concocted from a few bones, small pieces of over meat and vegetables properly combined and seasoned.

A half a can of tomatoes has possibilities which make as interesting study as a game of bridge and of much more value to the family pocket-book.

Any remaining coffee may be used as liquid in a spice cake, or as flavoring in jelly or mocha frosting.

Cold potatoes may be used in a number of accomplishments, hashed brown, hash, delmonico and various savory Stale cake may be steamed and served with a sauce, making a most tasty pudding or crumb cake in custard with a little fruit supplies another dessert.

Even sour milk has a large repertoire, it is the milk par excellence to use in making doughnuts, cookies, spice cake, brown bread, not to mention griddle cakes and the delicious cottage cheese.

Chicken fat and beef drippings tried out together make excellent shortening for many uses and when combined with butter, will make tasty cake shortenings. The fat from mutton, ham, and bacon, when the flavor is objectionable in cooking may be saved and combined with the small can of lye, making a fine soap for dishwashing that one knows is clean.

The household that depends upon the baker's loaf for bread is not being fed either well wisely, or economically.

The successful housewife is trained in watchfulness for the "smallest leak" she knows how to buy in quantities and is wise in using her purchases. In certain seasons it is wise to buy canned goods in quantity, dried fruits, strips of bacon or potatoes at a time, apples and potatoes by the bushel or barrel. Of course there should be provision in the house for cold storage, or a fruit cellar, and the products of the land may then be stored for the entire winter. Even a small plot of ground will furnish vegetables to carry over the family with a well provided table during the winter.

Do not fail to have a small bed of herbs this spring, for the seasoning of food adds greatly to its palatability, as well as its digestibility.

THOUGHT.

Would you care to be just the kind of guy, as the kind you would like to be? Don't think that you can't, you are dopping it wrong, you can surely be liked to be; now the one you would pick that you'd choose to be like, would be happy and healthy and strong, he'd be honest, industrious, cheerful and good, despising the thing that is wrong; he would live a clean life and be mentally sound, 'cause he'd know on what things he should think, and nothing he'd have in his chamber of thought that would put his physique on the blink. Would you care to be like him? Then take up his thoughts, entertain those of cheer and of health. Would you like his prosperity? Think as he does and your thoughts of success will bring wealth. This tip is no jolly, nor it not a creed, but truth pure and wholesome and straight, your thoughts make your life and make you what you are — put that down for keeps in your pate.

She grasped the hook of the frail aerial carriage and clinging to it with both hands, pulled the release. Like a bird on wing, Helen shot far out from the mountainside and dropping at a sharp angle down the line, sped suspended between heaven and earth.

At a distance on the desert, the Shay engine of the Neighbor mine was toiling slowly along when the engineer saw the figure of a woman clinging to the aerial carriage of the Superstition mine as it shot through the air down to the valley. Breathless, he watched the wild flight, expecting every instant to see the slender creature let go, to fall, crushed, to the rock below her.

But Helen did not let go. Hanging on with a desperation born of the realization that she must save the imprisoned men, she shot across the dangerous declivity from top to bottom and without mishap, jumped in safety to the foot of the aerial and dashed away for help. She ran toward the little railroad, flagged the engine, got into the cab, and struggling for breath, apprised the crew of the accident. The engineer hurriedly started the engine back to their own mine. Forcing all the speed that he could get, and with Helen urging him to spare no effort, he made the

CHAPTER III
No Easy Mark

"We are in luck on the cement proposition," Brouillard told the eager money-maker. "We shall probably manufacture our own supply right here on the ground."

"Hm," said the millionaire, "a cement plant, eh? The materials have all been tested, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes; we've had experts in here for more than a year. The material is all right."

"And your labor?"

"On the dam, you mean? We shall work all the Indians we can get from the Navajo reservation, forty-odd miles south of here; for the remainder we shall import men from the States."

Mr. Cortwright's calculating eye roved once more over the attractive prospect.

"Fuel for your power plant?—wood, I take it?" he surmised; and then: "Oh, I forgot; you say you have coal."

"Yes; there is coal, of a sort; good enough for the cement kilns. For power we shall utilize the river. There is another small canyon at the head of the valley where a temporary dam can be built which will deliver power enough to run anything—an entire manufacturing city, if you like."

"No chance for a man to see the thin edge of a wedge in anywhere," lamented the money-maker despairingly. Then his eye lighted upon the graybeard dump of a solitary mine high up on the face of Mount Chigirigo. "What's that up there?" he demanded.

"It is a mine," said Brouillard, showing Miss Cortwright how to adjust the fieldglass for the shorter distance. "Two men named Massingale, father and son, are working it, I'm told. And then again Miss Genevieve: 'That is their cabin on the trail a little to the right of the tunnel opening.'"

"I see it quite plainly," she returned. "Two people are just leaving it to ride down the path—a man and a woman."

"I See It Quite Plainly," She Returned.

I think, though the woman—if it is a woman—is riding on a man's saddle. Brouillard's eyebrows went up in a little arch of surprise. Harding, the topographical engineer who had made all the preliminary surveys and had spent the better part of the former summer in the Niquola, had reported on the Massingales, father and son, and his report had conveyed a hint of possible antagonism on the part of the mine owners to the government project. But there had been no mention of a woman.

"The Massingale mine, eh?" broke in the appraiser of values crisply. "They showed us some ore specimens from that property while we were stopping over in Red Butte. It's rich—good and plenty rich—if they have the quantity. And somebody told me they had the quantity, too; only it was too far from the railroad—couldn't jack-freight it profitably over the Timanyons."

"In which case it is one of many," Brouillard said, taking refuge in the generalities.

But Mr. Cortwright was not to be so easily diverted from the pointed particulars—the particulars having to do with the pursuit of the market trail.

"I'm beginning to get my feet on bottom, Brouillard," he said, dropping the courtesy prefix and shoving his fat hands deep into the pockets of the dust-coat. "There's a business proposition here, and it looks mighty good to me. I tell you, I can smell money in this valley of yours—scads of it."

Brouillard laughed. "It is only the fragrance of future reclamation-service appropriations," he suggested. "There will be a good bit of money spent here before the Buckskin desert gets its maiden wetting."

"I don't mean that at all," was the impatient rejoinder. "Let me show you: you are going to have a population of some 50,000. That's the basis. Then you're going to need cement, lumber and steel. It can be manufactured right here on the spot."

"The cement and the lumber can be produced here, but not the steel," Brouillard corrected.

"That's where you're off," snapped the millionaire. "There are fine ore beds in the Hopfords and a pretty good quality of coking coal. Ten or twelve miles of a narrow-gauge railroad would dump the pig metal into the upper end of your valley, and there you are. With a small reduction plant you could tell the big steel people to go hang."

"Unquestionably. But this is a case of can't-help-it," Brouillard argued. "You couldn't begin to interest private capital in any of those industries you speak of."

"Why not?" was the curt demand.

"Because when the dam is completed and the spillway gates are closed, the Niquolasterge and everything in it will go down under two hundred feet of water."

"The—what?" queried Miss Cortwright.

"The Niquolasterge—where the they-come-up," said Brouillard, explaining for her. "That is the Navajo name for this valley. Our map makers shortened it to Niquola and the owners of the Buckskin foothills have cut that to 'lick-wire.'"

This bit of explanatory place lore was entirely lost upon Mr. J. Wesley Cortwright. He was chewing the ends of his short mustaches and scowling thoughtfully out upon the possible site of the future industrial city of the plain.

"Say, Brouillard," he cut in, "you get me the right to build that power dam, and give me the contracts for what material you'd rather buy than make, and I'll be switched if I don't take a shot at this drowning proposition myself. I tell you, it looks pretty good to me. What do you say?"

"I say," laughed the young chief of construction, "that I'm only a hired man. You'll have to go a good few rounds higher up on the authority ladder to close a deal like that. I'm not sure it wouldn't require an act of congress."

"Well, by George, we might get even that if we had to," was the optimistic assertion. "You think about it."

"I guess it isn't my think," said Brouillard, inclined to take the retired pork packer's suggestion as the mere ravings of a money-mad promoter. "As the government engineer in charge of this work, I couldn't afford to be identified even as a friendly intermediary in any such scheme as the one you are proposing."

"Of course, I suppose not," agreed the would-be promoter, sucking his under lip in a way ominously familiar to his antagonists in the wheat pit. Then he glanced at his watch and changed the subject abruptly. "We'll have to be straggling back to the chug-wagon. Much obliged to you, Mr. Brouillard. Will you come down and see us off?"

At the final descent in the trail, with the Buckskin blanknesses showing hotly beyond the curtaining pines, they passed at a step from romance to the crude realities.

The realities were basing themselves upon the advent of two newcomers, riding down the Chigirigo trail to the ford which had been the scene of the fish slaughtering; a sunburnt young man in goatskin "chaps," flannel shirt and a flapping Stetson, and a girl whose face reminded Brouillard of one of the Madonnas, whose name and painter he strove vainly to recall. Ten seconds farther along the horses of the pair were sniffing suspiciously at the automobile, and the young man under the flapping hat was telling Van Bruce Cortwright what he thought of cartridge fishermen in general, and of this present cartridge fisherman in particular.

"Which the same, being translated into Buckskin English," hollers like this," he concluded. "Don't you tote any more fish cartridges into this here reservation; not no more, whatsoever. Who says so? Well, if anybody should ask, you might say it was Tig Smith, foreman of the Tri-Circ's outfit. No, I ain't no game warden, but what I say goes as she lays. Save?"

Brouillard walked his companion down to the car and helped her to a seat in the tonneau. She repaid him with a nod and a smile, and when he saw that the crudities were not troubling her he stepped aside and unconsciously fell to comparing the two—the girl on horseback and his walking mate of the canyon passage.

They had little enough in common, apart from their descent from Eve, he decided—and the decision itself was subconscious. The millionaire's daughter was a warm blonde, beautiful, queenly, a finished product of civilization and high-priced culture; a woman of the world. And the girl on horseback? A rather slight figure, a face winsome, masses of copper-brown hair, eyes . . . He caught himself wondering if her cowboy lover—he had already jumped to the sentimental conclusion—had ever been able to look into those steadfast eyes and trifle with the truth.

When the fish-slaughtering matter was finally settled—not by the tender of money that Mr. Cortwright had made—the man Smith and his pretty riding mate leaped through the ford and disappeared among the barren hills.

"A revolr, Mr. Brouillard," said the princess, as the car rolled itself for the southward flight into the desert. "If I were you I shouldn't fall in love with the old-red fiddlers who rides like a man. Mr. Tri-Circ's Smith 'might object,' you know."

There was something almost heart-warming in the bit of parting badinage, but the warmth might have given place to a disconcerting chill if he could have heard Mr. J. Wesley Cortwright's remark to his seat companion.

"He isn't going to be the dead easy mark I hoped to find in the son of the old bankrupt hair-splitter, Genie, girl. But he'll come down and look himself right if a bait is well covered, with his particular brand of sugar. Don't you forget it."

CHAPTER IV
Sands of Pactolus

If Victor Brouillard had been disposed to speculate curiously upon the possibilities suggested by Mr. J. Wesley Cortwright on the occasion of the capitalist's brief visit to the Niquola, there was little leisure for it. Fairly confronting his problem, Brouillard did not find himself hampered by departmental inertia. While he was rapidly organizing his force for the constructive attack, the equipment and preliminary material for the upbuilding of the great dam were piling up by the trainload on the sidetracks at Quesado, and at once the man and beast killing task of rushing the excavating outfit of machinery, teams, scrapers, rock-drilling installations, steam shovels, and the like, over the War Arrow trail was begun.

During the weeks which followed, the same trail, and a little later that from the Navajo reservation on the south, were strung with antlike processions of laborers pouring into the shut-in valley at the foot of Mount Chigirigo. Almost as if by magic a populous camp of tents, shelter shacks and Indian tepees sprang up in the level bed-bottom of the future lake; campfires gave place to mess kitchens; the commissary became a busy department store stocked with everything that thrifty or thrifless labor might wish to purchase; and daily the great foundation scorings in the buttressing shoulders of Jack's mountain and Chigirigo grew deeper and wider under the churning of the air-drills, the crashings of the dynamite and the rattle and chug of the steam shovels.

It was after the huge task of foundation digging was well under way and the work of constructing the small power dam in the upper canyon had begun that the young chief of construction, busy with a thousand details, had his first forcible reminder of the continued existence of Mr. J. Wesley Cortwright.

It came in the form of a communication from Washington, forwarded by special post-rider service from Quesado, and it called a halt upon the river power project. In accordance with its settled policy, the reclamation service would refrain, in the Niquola as elsewhere, from entering into competition with private citizens; would do nothing to discourage the investment of private capital. A company had been formed to take over the power production and to establish a plant for the manufacture of cement, and Brouillard was instructed to govern himself accordingly. For his information, the department letter writer went on to say, it was to be understood that the company was duly organized under the provisions of an act of congress; that it had bound itself to furnish power and material at prices satisfactory to the service; and that the relations between it and the government field-staff on the ground were to be entirely friendly.

"It's a graft—a pull-down with a profit in it for some bunch of money leeches a little higher up!" was the young chief's angry comment when he had given Grislow the letter to read. "Without knowing any more of the details than that letter gives, I'd be willing to bet a month's pay that this is the fine Italian hand of Mr. J. Wesley Cortwright!"

Grislow's eyebrows went up in doubtful interrogation.

"Ought I to know the gentleman?" he queried mildly. "I don't seem to recall the name."

"No, you don't know him. It was his motor party that was camping at the Buckskin ford the night we broke in here—the night when we saw the searchlight."

William Travers Jerome, the New York lawyer, said of a certain charge the other day:

"It was a coincidence, a strange coincidence, an almost incredible coincidence—like the stutterer's tale, you know."

"A stutterer in a restaurant said to a waiter:

"Bring me a p-p-plate of beef."

"The waiter, who also stuttered, answered:

"We-we're out of b-b-beef sir!"

"The guest, thinking he was being mocked, rushed at the waiter to knock him down, but another patron interposed hurriedly:

"Don't hit him," he said, "he's not mocking you. He stutters the same as I d-d-did before I was cured."

How to Make
Want Ads Pay

Example No. 25

Here is the Way Want Ads Will Help You Climb
Want Ads really teach you how to do things. But Want Ads are like any other school. If a scholar remained in the third grade just because he knew he could succeed in it, he would never graduate.

Once you prove to your own satisfaction that you can make Want Ads bring business, or get you a position, that fact alone should suggest to you that Want Ads can sell other goods for you, or get you a better position.

Here are several Want Ads that show you how one young woman kept bettering herself through the Want Ad columns:

FIRST WANT AD WANTED—POSITION AS STENOGRAPHER BY YOUNG WOMAN OF GOOD CHARACTER AND GOOD HABITS, RECENTLY GRADUATED FROM A LEADING BUSINESS COLLEGE. WILLING TO WORK HARD.	SECOND WANT AD POSITION WANTED BY STENOGRAPHER OF 15 MONTHS' EXPERIENCE. CAN TAKE NOTES RAPIDLY AND TRANSCRIBE QUICKLY AND CORRECTLY. BEST OF REFERENCES. WISH CHANCE OF ADVANCEMENT.

WILL SELL DEVICE FOR RADIO CONTROL OF TORPEDO FIRING

John Hays Hammond, Jr., Will Receive $750,000 from Government for Wonderful Defense Invention.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Washington, April 13.—For three-quarters of a million dollars a young American inventor is about to surrender to Uncle Sam all the patents and the exclusive right to use a device by which a torpedo can be launched against the battleship of an enemy and so directed and controlled by radio dynamic forces either from shore or from an aeroplane as to insure its striking its mark at a maximum distance of twenty-eight miles.

John Hays Hammond, Jr., of Gloucester, Mass., the wizard son of John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer, is the inventor and owner of 128 patents which will be turned over to the government.

He alone possesses the secret, and he alone accepts his offer he will reveal it only to those designated by the government.

Mr. Hammond has also stipulated that in addition to turning over all rights to his patents he will devote his time gratis to co-operating in installing the apparatus and its co-related engines of destruction.

$750,000 Called Fair Price.
Discovery that the government is willing to pay young Hammond a fortune for his invention was made with the introduction in the house of the appropriations bill. The sum of $750,000 was approved as a fair price, both by military officials and the subcommittee.

There is the authoritative statement that Hammond refused to sell his invention for a fabulous sum to any of the European countries now at war, explaining to the old world bidders that no amount would tempt him to give them the preference over his native land.

When it became known Mr. Hammond had expended $300,000, furnished by his father, in perfecting his device and had labored continuously for eight years, the sum he asked for the invention all patent rights was considered reasonable.

Four years ago he discovered the principle for which all had been searching for twenty years his expert, assisted by the eyes of officers of the navy, and these experts are convinced.

Mr. Hammond's plan involves the control of the torpedo from a station, located at some distance back from the boat. The best method, he believes, is to place the torpedo in the path of a boat, which can be projected at a high rate, making it difficult to hit. The boat is controlled by the radio forces and sent in a straight line. When a short distance away from the target the torpedo is propelled from the boat against the target.

Control Torpedo From Aeroplane.
But the Hammond torpedo may be controlled with equal ease from an aeroplane, from a height of one mile. Mr. Hammond is confident he can increase this distance to four miles and send the torpedo against a warship twenty-eight miles from shore.

He reported experiments Hammond had proved that by an ordinary land track his torpedo hit ten out of fifteen times a bamboo rod one inch in diameter standing upright at a distance of three and one-half miles. A gun or attack by radio-activity is then overcome by a secret method, the most wonderful of the whole invention, he said. The result is that if radio force, in the form of a beam of light or otherwise, is turned on the ship being attacked, the torpedo immediately turns toward the ship and proceeds with an accelerated motion and force that cannot be overestimated.

In addition to perfecting his torpedo and the method of controlling it, Mr. Hammond has a system which the circling of wireless signals can be prevented. This also is the exclusive property of the inventor. It is claimed that his method of preventing wireless signals has a large commercial value.

HEAVY DELINQUENT TAXES REPORTED IN DANE COUNTY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

REFUSES A PARDON TO MILWAUKEE MAN

Wife Murderer Gets No Leniency from Governor.—Ten Other Pardon Cases Heard.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., April 13.—Gov. Philip yesterday afternoon refused the application for the pardon of William Notton, convicted in Milwaukee, Jan. 18, 1905, of murdering his wife. Notton was sentenced to Waupun for the term of his natural life. It was claimed by Senator A. P. Tompkins, who appeared for Notton, that the man could not have committed a greater crime than murder in the second degree, for which the punishment is not to exceed twenty-five years.

A conditional pardon was granted to Anna Suderland, convicted in Chippewa county, Jan. 21, 1911, of the crime of murder in the second degree and sentenced to Waupun for a term of 15 years. The governor refused the application of Thomas Larkin of Milwaukee, convicted in the same prison, March 27, 1915, for three years in Waupun for attempted burglary. The application of Alfred Hayes, convicted on Jan. 21, 1915, of abandonment and sentenced to one year, was also refused.

Considerable interest was manifested by Gov. Philip in the case of Carl Boek, convicted from Columbia county of murder in the first degree and sentenced to Waupun for life. He asked scores of questions and finally commuted the sentence to twenty years. As Boek was sentenced on August 15, 1906, counting time allowed for good behavior, he will probably be eligible for parole within a short time.

Although the application of James T. Lynch of Dane county, convicted of murder on Dec. 2, 1912, was pending, owing to the absence of some of the papers, no consideration was given to the matter and it will probably be taken up at a later time. The term of Frank Melczynski, convicted in Portage county of murder in the second degree on March 16, 1910, was reduced by the governor from fifteen years to ten years.

More pardons were considered by the governor yesterday than at any of his previous pardon hearings. Eleven separate matters were up.

BOOST GOOD ROADS AT MILWAUKEE CONVENTION.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Milwaukee, Wis., April 13.—A meeting of men from all over Wisconsin who are interested in good roads was held here today to form the state good roads association. One hundred were attending.

William H. Woods, secretary of the convention bureau of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, was instrumental in calling the meeting and in effecting the organization. A temporary organizing committee was formed at the first session at the Republican house this morning. At noon a luncheon for the out of town visitors was given.

Committees met this forenoon and made plans for a permanent organization. A dinner will be given at the Wisconsin hotel tonight and the organization perfected.

According to plans discussed today a paid secretary with headquarters at Madison will be hired. Literature will be sent out and educational campaign planned. It is intended to include every county in the state in the organization.

One of the biggest boosts good road enthusiasts have received in the state this season was the approval of the voters of Outagamie county of the issuance of $500,000 bonds for improvement of roads. The bonds, carried by a large majority after a hard fight.

The Sheridan Road improvement association of the southern part of the state hopes to have a highway completed between Milwaukee and Chicago by autumn.

DEMOCRATIC PEACE MEETING TO BE HELD IN NEW YORK

New York, April 13.—Democrats representing different factions are expected to pledge their support to the policies of President Wilson at the annual Jeffersonian dinner given tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria by the National Democratic club. The dinner, characterized in the announcement as a "harmony feast," will have among its chief guests Attorney General Thomas W. Gregory, Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri. They and other leaders of the party will deliver speeches. The committee in charge of the arrangements includes John W. Keller, chairman; Thomas E. Rush, secretary of the party; Stuart G. Gibbons, of New York; and Henry M. Oldfogel, formerly representative in congress; William A. Clark, one-time United States senator from Montana.

"SWIVEL CHAIR PILOTS" REPLACED BY EXPERTS IN U. S. ARMY AERIAL WORK

The "swivel chair pilots" of the army aerial service, led by Lieut. Col. Samuel Reber, are to be replaced by skilled aviators, according to a positive statement made by war department officials. It is considered likely that Lieut. Col. George O. Squier will succeed Col. Reber. An important new figure on the aviation board will be Lieut. Thomas D. Milling, probably the most skillful pilot in the U. S. aerial service.

COSTS MORE TO LIVE IN ENGLAND NOW THAN IN THE UNITED STATES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
London, April 13.—It costs more to live in London today than it costs to live in New York.

It costs more to live in the smaller cities and towns of England's provinces than it costs to live in the cities and towns of the United States.

Cleveland, Kansas City, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Dallas, San Francisco, Portland are cheaper places to live than Sheffield, Liverpool, Manchester, Hull and English cities like that.

Nevertheless, Britishers returning today from the United States insist their country is the cheaper for the masses.

Their mistake lies in the fact that the English do without many things Americans consider absolute necessities. Most such things are so high in England today that only plutocrats can have them.

Practically the only exceptions in England's favor is clothing; and even clothing is higher. A good sack suit, English fit, which used to cost $20, now sells for $22.50. The price is still rising.

So are other prices. It is not a gradual rise. Hardly a day passes that an advance of 5 or 10 per cent is not announced in some staple.

Beef is 40 cents, mutton 25, pork 28; hardly any lamb is to be had; the killing of calves is prohibited; bread 9 cents a 2-pound loaf; good butter 42 cents; tea 52 cents; very soft coal $7.80 a ton; anthracite $11.25.

Rentals are about the same as in the United States, but include nothing.

Cooking and lighting gas in a 5-room flat cannot be kept below $10 or $12 monthly.

Telephone calls are 6 cents each. A 5-mile street car ride costs 7 cents.

Cigars which would be dear in the United States at a nickel apiece, retail in England at 14 cents.

The distilleries being used by the government for munition making, it is predicted that whiskey which sold at 75 to 85 cents a bottle will soon retail at $2.40.

The income tax has risen until it is a fearful burden. It begins with incomes of 150 pounds ($240) yearly. The assessment increases more than proportionately as the income grows larger. A man earning $2,500 annually, pay 36 cents on every $4.80. If his income is from invested capital the rate is much higher.

The net result is that an English family, moving to America and continuing to live according to the English standard, would have more money than at home, while an American family moving to England and continuing to live according to the American standard, would have materially less.

PLAN TO SPEND TEN MILLION TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS AT CANAL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Panama, April 13.—The building division of the Panama canal has drawn plans for operations next year involving the expenditure of $10,000,000 provided congress appropriates the money.

Plans are made for seventy-five new two and four family frame houses for employees; hotels at Ancon, Balboa, Balboa shops and at Cristobal; several new school houses and about one hundred small frame cottages. The largest of the new school houses is to be built at Balboa which now is the capital of the Canal Zone. It is to be the high school and will replace the present wooden building which does not conform with the remainder of the buildings in the town.

The United States army also contemplates the erection of many new frame buildings for quarters. The army already has constructed many new buildings at Military Heights, east of Balboa proper, and at Corozal where the cavalry, artillery and engineer detachments have their barracks.

This 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers Will Last Any Man 5 Years or More.

She hasn't a weakness. And the sturdiest part of her anatomy is her 3400 r. p. m. engine.

Now there has been a lot of talk about 3400. I find some of my prospects come in here a little bit doubtful about 3400.

They have been told by my contemporaries that an engine turning up 3400 r. p. m. is doomed to short existence.

That's absurd. Why, there are at least three cars in America that do 3100 r. p. m. or better. Ten years ago in Europe there were cars that did 4000 r. p. m.

Take the electric fan. It does around 4000. A turbine reaches about 4300.

Now, the argument set forth against 3400 is the "wear and tear on bearings."

How ridiculous! Of course, if we had an old-fashioned engine with heavy iron pistons and arm-and-hammer type of connecting rods—then, to be sure, I'd have little to say.

But, to the contrary, this is a very modern engine. The pistons are aluminum, which cost a whole lot more, but weigh a whole lot less.

Then the connecting rods are much lighter. That takes a lot of weight off the bearings, and permits about 500 r. p. m. more engine speed.

That isn't a very big increase, I know, but it's just enough to make a very foxy, silken-affair in action.

And then, too, in traveling 10 miles an hour her engine speed is only 500 r. p. m. At 20 she turns up 1000. At 30, 1500.

How often do you travel faster than 30?

So unless you want to sink the little button to the floor board and hold her there all day, you're not using 3400 r. p. m. all the time.

I hope none of my friends will swallow whole any story deriding 3400.

You know you will always find the largest number of clubs under the best apple tree in the orchard.

This car has doubled my sales. As Mr. Post says, "There's a reason."

TIGERS BEAT SOX AS CUBS WIN GAME

Russell Drops First Game in the First Inning.—Cubs Whale Toney at Cincinnati.—The First Games.

Detroit's nubbentable wrecking crew at the bat proved too much for the Chicago White Sox at the opening game yesterday, as the Tigers wiped the sunshine off the Sox's faces by routing them by taking the first game four to nothing. Coveleskie held the Sox to six scattered hits, and no team can win without the runs.

Detroit got to Russell in the first inning, slugging the ball to the far corners and scoring three runs. They repeated the slugging in the second, scoring one, when Faber was sent to the mound. Thereafter the Sox had the Jungtowntown slugging crew nicely tamed and it was a bad bet when Faber did not start the game instead of Tex Russell. The Tigers, barring any unlucky breaks during the season, are going to give the Sox and others trouble, as they have Bush, Vint, Cobb and Crawford coming to bat almost in a row, and if one team ever had a wrecking crew Detroit has it in that aggregation.

In Cincinnati the remodeled Cubs gave the Reds a trimming by the score of 7 to 1 before the twenty-four thousand people. McConnell, old "Red" hurler, was the head of the battle, for he pitched through the nine innings with an excellence that had the Reds tamed. He never was in danger of losing. He was opposed by Fred Toney, whom the Cubs abused roundly.

In comparing the lineups of the two Chicago teams, it is easy to be seen that both have been improved. For the Sox, Buck Weaver has been shifted from shortfield to third base, and his work yesterday went to demonstrate that this weak hole will be plugged by Weaver. Terry worked in well at short, with Collins at second and Fournier, the clotting first sacker, showing improvement at fielding. The Cubs show many changes. Mulligan, their new shortstop, did not make a good impression yesterday, but may produce. Workers is playing second, with the mighty Zimmerman at third and Saier at first. The outfield has but one old Cub, Schulte.

BADGERS WIN FIRST GAME BEATING NOTRE DAME 1 TO 0

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) South Bend, Ind., April 13.—Coach (Slim) Lewis' Badger baseball nine was lucky in winning the first tilt of the season with Notre Dame on Wednesday by a score of 1 to 0 over the Catholics. An error, a stolen base and a search hit gave the Badgers the game, although they made but two hits to nipe by Notre Dame.

Coach Lewis used two pitchers, Brann and Cusick, but the Catholics seemed to be able to hit both of them. This was the first real test of the ability of the "varsity" pitching staff and it did not speak any too well for the chances of Wisconsin in the coming conference games.

The Badger base running and fielding was the feature of the opening battle, and in this department Wisconsin had it all over Notre Dame. Thursday a second game between the two schools will be played, but Lewis has not yet used any of his best.

METHODISTS BEAT TEACHERS AT BLIND INSTITUTE 49-14

The Methodist church basketball players had an easy time with the teachers out at the Blind Institute last evening when they swamped them by a score of 49 to 14. Never once did the teachers threaten the church league team. Captain Beard, the Methodist was in the light as a scorer as he has been in many previous games. Brotherson, Richards, and Flatten also figured in the team work and all secured three or four baskets.

One often hears of "ten-second" men in baseball, but it is doubtful if there is a sprinter in the game who can make the hundred yards in that time. At the camp of the Reds in Shreveport recently a mile race was put on. Wade Killifer ran the distance around the Shreveport track in his baseball uniform in six minutes and twenty-six seconds, a pace that probably can be bested by a lot of well developed office boys.

NO PITCHER GAVE ART FLETCHER MORE THAN ONE PASS LAST YEAR

MORRIS MILLER

Hugh Jennings does not blame Jim Calahan for his two failures with the White Sox. In a statement to the Detroit manager, Jennings, manager of the National league, he picks Stallings as the most capable of the whole lot and has this to say of Calahan: "Calahan failed twice with the Chicago White Sox. He should not be judged on that. He never had complete control. Likewise he handled about as unintelligently as a bunch as the game ever produced. Of course, there were smart players, but the average was low. There was prejudice against him. The worst criticism was that Cal associated with theatrical people and ball players got their heads together and said, 'He thinks he's too good for us.' Helpful spirit, isn't it? I always blame Cal for not keeping more closely in touch with his players—although I didn't blame him."

Maranville, who did not perform in good style in the last campaign, seems to be a good form this spring. The little fellow is one of the mildest shortstops in the game when he is going well, and there is no doubt about him this season, for he has himself in good condition, and with Smith and Evers on either side and Konechey on first, Stallings, has one of the best infields in the National league.

Cozy Dolan, who "bought" his own release from the St. Louis Cardinals by accepting a bonus for giving up the former won by just two hundred and two pins. Zable relied the high score, hitting 194 of the maples.

So great is the interest in baseball in Little Rock, among women as well as men, that the largest department store in the city has arranged to install a ticker service in its women's rest room, where all the American, National and Southern league games will be bulletined.

Connie Mack has dropped one of his pitching prospects, a youngster named Hart, who has been sent to the Charleston club of the South Atlantic league. Hart is a semi-pro who made a record in Pennsylvania independent circles of fanning thirty-three batters in two games of a double-header.

Two former catchers of the St. Louis Cardinals who did a flop to the Reds have been wiped off Manager Hughes' list. They are Pat O'Connor, who has gone into the saloon business in his home town of Springfield, Mass., and Skipper Roberts, who has been given his unconditional release and probably will retire from the game.

When the time comes to total up the results of interleague clashes the National league followers will insist, without a doubt, that none of the games between the Braves and Athletics be overlooked. In three games played recently the Braves made Mack's "coming" team look like a bunch of schoolboys at the camp of the Braves at Miami.

Hugh Bedient, who has signed to play with Roger Bresnahan's Toledo team, is in baseball not because he needs the money, but for the love of it. Bedient is the guy who got $7,000 cash down for signing a contract with the Reds, and he put the money into such good investments that it nets him a nice little income, taken in connection with what he got when slaving for the Red Sox.

Having exhausted the publicity possibilities of Benny Kauff as a hold-out, a New York press agent now has framed up a story about a movie picture actress who is crazy about Benny and is due to follow him about the circuit this season, feasting her sheep eyes on him. The badness of the fake is shown by the failure to

JOHNSON N. CAMDEN HAS QUIT THE RACING GAME.

Louisville, April 12.—Though he still will maintain his Hartland Stud, in Woodford county, and thoroughbreds will continue to sport his colors, racing has sustained a loss in the retirement of former United States Senator Johnson N. Camden, as chairman of the Kentucky Racing commission. Mr. Camden, whose resignation Governor Stanley accepted March 27, gave ill health as the cause for resigning. He had been a member of the commission for the past six years.

PRIVATE COMMITTEE IN STOCKHOLM MAY RAISE FUND FOR PREPAREDNESS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Stockholm, Sweden, April 12.—A private committee has been formed here which intends to provide room for the protection of Stockholm against air attack. The committee has prepared a plan of the necessary defenses, including batteries of anti-aircraft guns on the hills around Stockholm and a fleet of twenty defensive aeroplanes.

HIS AGE IS AGAINST HIM.

"I am 52 years old and I have been troubled with kidneys and bladder for a good many years," writes Arthur Jones, Allen, Kas. "My age is against me to ever get cured, but Foley Kidney Pills do me more good than anything ever tried." Many people suffer from kidney trouble who need not suffer when they can get Foley Kidney Pills. Mr. Jones in a later letter says if it was not for them he would never be able to work in the hay field. Rheumatism, aching back, shooting pains, stiff joints, all have been relieved.—W. T. Sherer.

NEARLY A HUNDRED BUSHEL OF CORN SOLD WITH A SMALL WANT AD.

FOR SALE—Gold Medal seed corn, germination 100 per cent, ear test, $10 per bu. A. Austin, Janesville.

Janesville Gazette, Janesville, Wis. Gentlemen: I found to my satisfaction that the way to sell anything is to advertise it in the Gazette. I had a large quantity of good seed corn upon which I had fixed a price of $10 per bushel.

A little Gazette Want Ad sold nearly one hundred bushels at my price. Letters came in to us after the advertising had stopped. That was easier than going from one place to another myself trying to sell the corn. And the cost was almost nothing.

A. AUSTIN.
